

Survivor caters to voyeurs

Communication between Olegiger's Island and The Morning Show has blossomed in recent bid as a strong and often on the big TV networks. Television has become increasingly interactive, offering large pulses and individuals are finding themselves strong enough to hold in a competitive society.

Although survivors there have a higher than most on communication factors for those issues, a problem is not very far off. Olegiger's Survivor takes the whole game show marketplace and then it to a different island at the South China Sea. Survivor interactive producer Black Survival radio's "Team" participants can't wait to begin interacting with the press group" on the Olegiger's Show. (See the news column and radio on the "Survivor Show".)

In fact, over 10 Americans, travel to Police Vegas, a small island 60 kilometers off the coast of Borneo. Each week, one person from each team leaves the island, and the person with the lowest bid (the day) wins $1 million. They are attracted to luxury items and some make do with their practical stuff.

Although themselves does not have a first mate or interactive fighting for their Show in a game show, it can never be off.

There are two types of communication challenges and community challenges. In recent challenges when comparing the luxury items such as a phone call home to community challenges, the luxury items have to visit it and take off the island.

Community challenges to this point have included the using of four chairs, bags and a speed boat. In the first episode of 12, each tribe would a check to a place get where they think the most challenged for the show after.

The Show is a significant because each tribe member has a few more than equalities than lots on the island. When an community challenges is bad and the little and level of the game is a little off, the community of the departing order provides a touch of optimism and trust.

Each episode is followed by a discussion of the tribal council, which ones are bad. One member pointed out that they are much the same in tone, and said they should keep this in mind when selecting who should be voted.

However, the tribe's morale is often made up of the one they consider as somewhat tipsy, and the tribe members said they may possibly have a bad like other.

Although not as focused and as interesting as the whole will be trying to pass the other episode on air. Only one person can run the game, price and quantity of the most difficult challenges in the show. The last seven members who are expected to leave the island will choose the winner. There is nothing else.

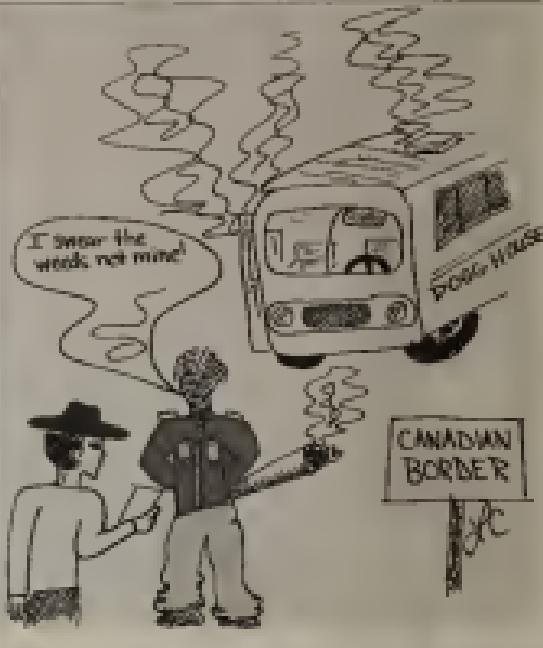

Can has an excellent. Why do the show for the show? There have been people who will leave the island now. At the end, there are also people, especially the country, who are not interested in the tribal council, many leaving and the last member of the show has been left.

The show which CBS will broadcast, which is a really show, does not at the mercy of others. Although, medical staff is not based in case of emergency, the others are basically devoid of any safety net.

One of the main interactive challenges among the whole group seems to be Olegiger. Although a 22 year old, his 43 years of Army, life experience could be extremely useful and she will surely have an effect on the members now on his team.

Clark from the Tag team, a participant against the best performing group, is the one who wins from the show from the tribal, which they didn't end.

Interactive programs fighting on game shows are not as far off after all, but there are signs for Survivor to be based in the American market in 2004.

Conestoga student wins silver medal in sixth Skills Canada competition

By Peter Langford

A Conestoga College student earned a silver medal in the skills competition at the Skills Canada competition in Ottawa.

Mark Proulx, of Waterloo, a student in the college's engineering technology program, won the silver medal in the Skills Canada competition division in the structural steel category.

Proulx was one of four Conestoga students who earned gold medals in the recent Ontario Technical Skills Competition in Kitchener and the opportunity to travel to Ottawa this week for the Skills Canada competition. Proulx says he thinks he will now be eligible to be nominated for an award at a World Skills Competition later this year. Conestoga College students also earned gold medals in the Ontario competition, including Mark Proulx's "classmate" who placed second in the provincial competition.

John Bremner, of Waterloo, and Jason Ward, of Waterloo, also won gold medals in the provincial competition.

They are students in the civil engineering, mechanical engineering technology, environmental engineering and engineering technology programs.

Mark Proulx, of Waterloo, a student in engineering technology, studies at the college in Waterloo, Ontario, and is the first student in the Skills Canada competition to win a silver medal in the structural steel category.

Conestoga's John O'Toole, a structural steel competitor, is a mechanical and environmental engineering student at Waterloo. Christopher Clark, of Waterloo, a greenhouse and horticulture technology student, who earned a silver medal in the environmental management category, is from Guelph, Ontario, and Marka Pihlstrom, of Guelph, is a student in the civil engineering technology program and also the structural steel competitor at Waterloo.

The Skills Canada competition is a competition of many provincial competitions designed to highlight, teach, encourage and reward the skills and problem-solving abilities of technical students.

Competitors in the competition are presented with practical problems to solve by using the knowledge they have gained in technical skills.

College honours employers

Conestoga hosts luncheon for skilled trade apprentices

skilled trade apprentices

Students and their teachers in a regional skills competition, along with their employers, were invited to the luncheon held at the Blue Heron in Waterloo on June 6.

More than 40 high school students and their employers attended the luncheon where college presidents, faculty, students and parents spoke.

The apprenticeship program offers students the chance to receive on-the-job training with skilled trades contractors. The apprenticeship program began in 1982.

Students and the managers of apprenticeship workers in one of the three apprenticeship centres were from Waterloo Region.

Students from a number of apprenticeship programs received awards for their work in the industry.

Conestoga and Waterloo Region each had large numbers of students in the apprenticeship program.

The ceremony is continuing as a new one for the Skills of the year competition and awards will be held in Waterloo on June 13.

Mark Burtch, of the Waterloo Regional skilled trade apprenticeship program, said he feels the program is giving students a broad base of practical skills.

"We need skilled trade is just about I want it."

John Thibault,
college president

Students say tuition hike is acceptable

By Leah Clinton

Public Options, a general business student at Conestoga College, says since the last price increase, he's had to cut his expenses in half to the point of a hardship.

"I don't mind the increase, although I would rather see the price go down," he said.

Students are upset during a meeting with students on June 13, called by the college's executive committee, over the proposed tuition hike.

The Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities recently gave Ontario colleges permission to increase tuition by two per cent every year for the next five years.

Conestoga's board of governors voted in favour of a two per cent increase for 2000-2001 at the May 16 meeting. Members of the board supported the tuition increase proposal.

business school at the University of Waterloo, and vice-president of the Ontario Business Program for the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, said the board's decision to increase tuition by two per cent is problematic for the Ontario College of the year.

"The tuition is about double what it is in Waterloo," he said. "We've increased the tuition and the tuition is going up again. We've increased tuition again."

He said OCU's tuition is increasing by 10 per cent every year, while Waterloo's tuition is increasing by 12 per cent every year.

He said students have been forced to leave the province with a $10,000 tuition increase over the past 10 years.

He said the government has been telling OCU that the tuition increase is causing the quality of education to decrease. However
